Civic Group To Probe Bus Deficit

By TERRY HAMMOND

Greater Victoria transit commission will take a close look at the B.C. Electric Company's claim of a $500,000 bus service operating loss here last year, chairman Mayor Percy Scurrell said yesterday.

His statement came less than 24 hours after the Greater Victoria inter-municipal committee set up the permanent commission and handed it the task of delving into a B.C.E. proposal to reduce its local bus service by 15 per cent in a bid to cut operating losses.

The mayor admitted he had a hard time reconciling the B.C.E.'s claim of a $500,000 transit system loss last year with the fact that the buses are subsidized through electric rates.

ALL OPERATIONS

Consultants to the commission, he said, will be asked to relate the loss figure to the financial position of all B.C.E. operations in the Greater Victoria area.

He said the four commission members, himself and the representatives of Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay, will not delve into the utility accounting system themselves but will expect technical aides to do so.

TWOFOLD PURPOSE. "The B.C. Electric's accounting system would take a Philadelphia lawyer to figure out," the mayor said.

Mr. Scurrell said appointment of a permanent commission on local transit operations will have a twofold purpose—it will put the municipalities in a better position to keep themselves out of bus service operation and simultaneously provide them with valuable knowledge in case the first objective fails.

POSSIBLE MOVE

Earlier he told the Colonist it was his conviction that when the present B.C.E. bus franchise runs out the company would turn the public transportation problem over to the municipalities. A B.C. Electric official said this was a possibility.

But it would be less simple than it sounds, City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady said yesterday.

"The B.C. Electric can't simply turn the franchise back, as many people seem to believe. They must go to the Public Utilities Commission," he said.

UNLIKELY ACTION

He deemed it "most unlikely" that the PUC would allow the B.C.E. to abandon the public transit field here.

The solicitor also questioned the B.C.E.'s use of the 1960 $500,000 transit system loss figure.

"They cannot divide the transit system from the rest of their operation like that," he stated.

MAJOR POINT

Losses sustained by the bus service were a major point in the B.C.E.'s last PUC application for a utility rate increase in this area, he recalled.

Crash Sends Sailor Flying

John Pickford, HMCS Naden, was in fair condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital early today after he was flung 30 feet by impact of a two-car crash shortly after midnight at Yates and Quadra.

A passenger in his car, Lorraine Aitwood, 913 North Park, was treated for minor injuries and the driver of the other car, James G. Moser, 1212 Walnut, was not hurt.

Chico Marx Critically Ill

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Comedian Chico Marx, 70, piano-playing member of the Marx Brothers, was taken to hospital Friday night in critical condition. Nature of his ailment was not announced.

HONG KONG (UPI)—Typhoon Alice roared through Hong Kong with 100-mile-an-hour winds today and slammed into famine-plagued Communist China.

First reports said three persons died in Hong Kong. Ships, tossed about like corks, collided in the harbor. Property damage ran to tens of thousands of dollars.

The typhoon, which swept across the South China Sea, was the first to strike this British island colony with full fury this year.

The storm battered the refugee-crowded city for more than an hour before moving into Kwangtung province of mainland China threatening severely-needed spring rice crops. The rice was transplanted only last month and is in a tender stage.

Communist China needs all the rice it can get. The Peking regime has reported near-famine conditions in many regions as a result of drought and other natural calamities.

The food shortage on the mainland is so acute that Peking authorities have made huge purchases of wheat and other grains from Australia, Canada and other western countries.

South Africans Cut More Ties

LONDON (CP)—South Africa, which has decided to leave the Commonwealth, began withdrawing its representatives Friday from the specialist committees on which Commonwealth co-operation is based.

The start was made on the Commonwealth education liaison committee, during a meeting considered private.

EDUCATION AID

No official announcement followed but it was reported a South African diplomat told the meeting his government no longer could participate in the committee's operations. The committee was set up two years ago to co-ordinate educational assistance schemes.

MORE SERIOUS

Next step in South Africa's Commonwealth disengagement process, due Wednesday, is considered more serious. Then, for the first time, there will be no South African representative at the annual meeting of senior economic officials who meet to discuss common problems.

WORLD BANK

And there will be no South African representative when the finance ministers meet in September to prepare for the World Bank meeting.

Other Commonwealth groups from which South African representatives have withdrawn or are about to withdraw are:

THREE GROUPS

Commonwealth economic committee, which co-ordinates trading, financial and economic intelligence reporting; the Commonwealth scientific committee, which exchanges technical information, and the Commonwealth Press Union.

NOT A NICKEL

B.C. alone gets "not a single nickel more" than the basic tax returns in the new rental pact while several other provinces get many millions of dollars in "bonuses," he said. "Is it fair? The federal government is taking more money from us, because our wages are high and we pay the most income tax, and dividing the money among the rest of Canada."

"You in Esquimalt-Saanich are the chosen few, you must speak up for all B.C. You expect your premier to speak up. Your premier expects you to speak up."

$50,000,000 Fire Hits Teeming Heart of Manila

MANILA (AP)—Manila's worst fire since the Second World War destroyed more than four blocks of teeming Chinatown Friday night and early Saturday, leaving 5,000 people homeless. Damage to the heart of Manila was $50,000,000. There were no reports of deaths but scores were injured.

The blaze, which raged for 12 hours began in a warehouse and swept through 2,000 small shops.

"You were just that big," Dr. Frank Bryant joked with waitress Evelyn Paterson last night. Dr. Bryant delivered Mrs. Paterson 40 years ago.

Yesterday's Sun Set New Record

You're right—it WAS hot yesterday . . . In fact it set an all-time record for May 19. It wasn't the hottest day in May Victoria has ever seen (on May 28, 1947, it was 85 degrees) but the thermometer yesterday registered a high of 79.2 degrees at 4 p.m. at Gonzales Observatory. Previous record for May 19 was 73.4 degrees in 1946.

Temperatures today, predicts the weatherman, will drop to 70 degrees, with clear skies by afternoon. These conditions are expected to prevail through to Monday.

Two More For Space

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. plans to rocket a second astronaut down the Atlantic missile range June 20 and follow with a third around Aug. 1.

Astronaut John Glenn and Virgil Gribbin will repeat the May 5 performance of Alan Shepard. Also in June, a dummy in a Mercury spacecraft will be put into orbit with an Atlas missile.

FROM MANITOBA
Born in Russell, Man., in 1895—76 years ago—Dr. Bryant came to Victoria in 1911.

"Those were the days when only three doctors in town had cars," he reminisced. "Most doctors had a horse and buggy and there were hitching rails outside both the hospitals."

NINE RIDER

"I started my practice here riding a bicycle, but I changed over to renting a horse and buggy after one day when I answered one call to Esquimalt and then had to hurry over to another in Oak Bay. I could hardly walk when I got there."

Dr. Bryant has been president of the B.C. division of the Canadian Medical Association, and was president of Victoria Medical Society in 1931.

OTHER POINTS

He was also president of the medical staff of St. Joseph's Hospital in 1936 and 1946 and has held many other high professional posts.

During the dinner his fellow doctors presented him with an inscribed cigarette case.

But it was hard to tell which he enjoyed most—the dinner or his chat with Mrs. Paterson.

Whole Town Sends Girl to Health in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The hopes of hundreds of people in an Australian steel town are travelling with 20-year-old Lynette Walsh, who arrives Monday on the liner Oriana to undergo heart surgery.

Lynette has suffered all her life from mitral insufficiency,

a defect known as "open heart," and her condition has deteriorated during the last few years. Doctors in Sydney advised an operation and suggested Vancouver's General Hospital, widely known for cardiac surgery.

The day after she received the advice, Lynette mentioned

it casually to a fellow worker at the steel plant in Wollongong, 65 miles south of Sydney, where she works as an accounting machine operator. Three weeks later she was presented with the $4,500 needed for the trip.

The money had been raised by fellow workers and members of the Methodist church in the town, which Lynette attends, and another church in a suburb where she teaches Sunday School.

Lynette will enter hospital as soon as she arrives and hopes to return to Australia in August with a heart as good as new.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

A CURIOUS letter with an illegible signature has come to me from Sidney. It is full of old-fashioned race prejudice, which is something that few people will admit nowadays.

This is a letter about the Indians. It is an insult to them, uttered by a narrow-minded and insensitive man. I believe it should be quoted, so as to show that there are still people of this type around.

"I have read with inconceivable disgust your column in The Daily Colonist for Friday, May 5, 1961," my correspondent writes.

(This was a column in which I urged full liquor rights for B.C. Indians, subject to plebiscites.)

"Never in my life have I read such an example of abysmal ignorance. Why do you newsmen write articles about which you have no little knowledge?"

"Many years ago the Dominion government incorporated regulations in the Indian Act prohibiting Indians anywhere in Canada from purchasing or possessing intoxicating liquors or anything containing alcohol."

"This was because Indians are quite unable to drink like ordinary human beings... The Indian has not changed one iota, only the white man has changed, foolish politicians and newsmen like yourself who go around saying, 'Oh, the poor Indian, we must do something for them to show them we love them and think them our equals, let's give them unlimited liquor and turn them into rosy-eye drunks, that will make them happy.'"

"With your stupid sanctimonious nonsense you do far more harm to the Indian than you can possibly imagine. The Indian is not like you and I, well, like me anyway. I can... drink like a gentleman, but the Indian can not, for he is... an uncivilized savage."

"We white people have nothing to be proud of in our influence on the Indian. We have certainly not civilized them. Giving them liquor would not help them; it would set them back years and years."

"I know a great deal about them for I spent a lifetime among them during my years in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police... The worst thing the province of British Columbia did was to let them have access to the beer parlors, and it would be quite wicked to let them into the liquor stores."

"They would spend all their money on liquor. Men, women and children will be perpetually sozzled. I could tell you stories which would stand your hair on end for I really know the festive red man, but you do not want to learn."

"In your abysmal ignorance you have set yourself up as a great reformer who wants to make, overnight, a first-class citizen out of what is in reality a very sixth-class citizen."

That's what the man says. His arguments might have sounded convincing in the 19th century, but they really are not acceptable today.

There was a time when people believed that certain races were inferior to other races. Science proved this belief to be false, some time ago. The only inborn differences are between one person and another.

It is true that some groups—racial, social and economic groups—have suffered from particularly bad luck. The Indians were one such group.

"White men" smashed their tribes, stole their land, brought them whisky, guns and diseases. White men converted them to Christianity, but refused to accept them as brothers; left them feeling empty, frustrated and confused.

Many of them took to drink. They drank to soothe their inner resentment and confusion and sense of loss. They drank to prove that they were just as good as white men. Liquor became a symbol of their grudge.

My correspondent passed many years among the Indians. I think he kept his mind closed all that time. There are reasons why human beings act the way they do. Change people's circumstances, and you can change their behavior.

There are sober Indians and drunken white men. There are smart Indians and dumb white men. There are various shades of intelligence and moral sense among all races.

Considering that barely a century has passed since our smug, brutal and self-righteous civilization burst upon the Indians of this coast, they have travelled a long way.

Some are doctors, lawyers and clergy. More and more of them graduate from high school. But all Indians in B.C.—the rich, the poor, the intelligent and the stupid, vicious or saintly—labor under the same sense of injustice.

One outward sign that the Indians are being treated unjustly is our B.C. liquor law. Indians may go in bars and taverns, but they may not buy a bottle. They are the victims of discrimination.

Indians who want liquor can get it, from bars or from bootleggers, or they can make illegal home brew.

The only effects of our liquor law are to surround liquor with the glamour of a restricted thing, to make it the symbol of the Indian's grudge against the white men, and to give Indians a feeling of inferiority.

It is long past time that this injustice was removed. The restriction does more harm than good. It is an insult to our Indian brothers and fellow-citizens.

Doctors who have studied alcoholism point out that Indians have no physical weakness for liquor. But they have been subjected to social and emotional pressures that tempt them to drink.

We can ease one of those pressures now by changing our present "guzzle-and-get-out" Indian liquor law to something fair and sensible.

Of course it won't cure all the Indians' troubles. Some people will be worse off, as a result of the change. Social welfare and community development work should accompany this greater freedom.

In the long run, Indians will benefit by being treated as human beings.

No-Smoke Day Irks Merchant

"Clean lungs and green forests" is the slogan for Non-Smoking Day proclaimed for May 31 by the provincial government.

"It is deemed expedient to recognize the benefits that can be derived from non-smoking," says an order-in-council approved Thursday.

The order of the Social Credit cabinet, headed by non-smoking Premier Bennett, says people should be encouraged to refrain from smoking on that day and "every day thereafter."

It would be in the interests of good health and "for the sake of the protection of our forests which form such a valuable provincial asset."

Many experts have blamed heavy smoking for lung cancer.

The B.C. Forest Service says 257 fires, which burned over 5,000 acres and cost $150,000 to fight, were set by careless smokers in the province last year.

Manager of a well known Victoria tobacco shop can't understand why the government has proclaimed a non-smoking day.

Walter Hitchcox said he doesn't see how the government can interfere with people's individual tastes.

"Why not stop the wine people from making wine, or tell the beer parlor man he shouldn't sell beer?" he asked.

"The federal government is very happy to get $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 a year in excise on tobacco. It seems an extraordinary thing for the provincial government to interfere with any private industry," said Mr. Hitchcox.

The cabinet order said the government was encouraging the aims of the Non-Smokers' Association of Canada by designating May 31 non-smoking day in B.C.

Conspiracy Case Reaches Impasse

Preliminary hearing of a James Bay couple on a charge of conspiring to commit perjury reached an impasse in city police court yesterday and was remanded to Tuesday for further legal argument.

Winnifred and Sandor Domokos, 670 Battery, are accused of conspiring with Beryl Ann Fisher, 544 Simcoe, already committed for trial in higher court.

Charges arose from circumstances surrounding trial of Sandor Domokos last March on a charge of assaulting W. A. Scott, 1062 Newport. Mrs. Fisher told prosecutor Angus Smith she had talked with Mr. and Mrs. Domokos following the alleged assault.

Testifying under protection of the Canada Evidence Act, she said she asked if there was anything she could do to help the couple. They started talking about the assault case and she told Mrs. Domokos what she had heard of the affair.

Mrs. Domokos was a witness at the assault trial, which resulted in a dismissal.

Mr. Smith offered for later identification some documents which bore Mrs. Fisher's signature.

Impasse came as he urged admission of these items as exhibits. He argued such statements could be presented after evidence of conspiracy had been produced.

"You've struck the crux of the whole affair," said Magistrate William Ostler. "Where is the evidence of conspiracy?"

The magistrate said he had heard not one word of evidence that Mr. and Mrs. Domokos and Mrs. Fisher conspired together.

Find Out Immediately Cause of Night Sweats

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, MD

"Dear Dr. Molner: Around Christmas I came down with a bad cold, but since it was a busy time, I didn't take the proper care. Later I began sweating at night and feeling very weak. I have been resting a lot but cannot shake off the weakness. Could you tell me the cause of this trouble?" — Mrs. F.R."

No. But your own doctor can. Your letter impels me to make two comments which some times are important.

First—night sweats many times mean some chronic infection which might be anything from teeth to TB. Find out!

Second—we've come to know that the cold which leaves other symptoms sometimes simply hides some different trouble. Many of us have colds in winter. We get over them. When troubles hang on, don't blame them on that cold. Look for something else that has sneaked up. In other words, don't let lingering cold deceive you into neglecting something else.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would penicillin have a tendency to bring on an attack of labyrinthitis in some people?" — Mrs. L.M.B."

I'd say it's possible, but not probable. If a sensitivity to penicillin exists, then it's a "could-possibly-be" sort of situation. But the labyrinthitis could be a reaction to whatever infection required the use of penicillin in the first place, and that's what I'd investigate.

Today's Children Racing to Old Age?

By ROBERT MUEL
LONDON (UPI)—Children of today are bigger and taller than those of a generation ago, but some British scientists wonder whether this quick development may not mean a shorter life.

The suggestion that overfeeding of children with high vitamin content foods—a practice widely prevalent in prosperous Western countries—may have some such effect was made by Dr. Hugh Sinclair of Oxford.

“It shortens the period of growth and development so adult life is reached earlier and life is shortened,” said Dr. Sinclair.

But other scientists do not support the theory. One of them, Dr. Alex Comfort of University College in London, said it is “doubtful” that there has been any shortening of life from this cause, although overeating is not desirable at any age.

There’s no statistical way of finding out if this has happened over the last century for the simple reason that the loss from this cause, if there were one, has been completely swamped in the enormous gain of life-expectation due to better social conditions and to medical science,” Dr. Comfort said.

Dr. J. M. Tanner, the leading British expert in the field, said 12-year-olds of today are at least two inches taller on the average than the 12-year-olds of a generation ago.

He said a choirmaster at a boys’ school had complained to him that it was getting harder all the time to find boy sopranos because the youngsters were maturing too fast and losing their voices.

Envoyes representing the Algerian provisional government will land by helicopter in this resort town from their heavily guarded headquarters in Geneva, 25 miles away in Switzerland.

For 48 hours, more than 1,000 mobile police and gendarmes have manned a security ring around Evian, checking the identities of motorists and searching cars minutely for weapons or explosives.

Armed riot police were posted outside public buildings. Precautions were redoubled Friday as the French delegation—headed by Algerian Affairs Minister Louis Joxe—left Paris.

All access was barred to a zone around the French delegation headquarters as a precaution against bombs being planted by extremists opposed to President de Gaulle’s Algerian self-determination policies.

Shrinking Brain Led to Theft

TORONTO (CP)—A lawyer defending a man charged with housebreaking described a shrinking brain in court here to explain why a well-off businessman became a burglar.

The lawyer, M. O. Watson, said Clifford Beckett, 44, is a near-genius but suffers from a shrinking of the brain cells, medically known as progressive diffuse cerebral atrophy. As the condition gets worse Beckett will be less able to restrain the impulses which led him to housebreaking, the lawyer said.

MDs Back Osteopaths Censure Own Leaders

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Philadelphia County Medical Society, representing more than 3,400 physicians, Friday publicly acknowledged osteopaths practice “modern scientific medicine” and censured the American Medical Association policy toward osteopaths as “unrealistic.”

The historic action is probably the first of its kind among MD groups.

The move runs headlong into the code of ethics of the American Medical Association which holds collaboration between osteopaths and medical doctors is “unethical.”

Death on the Road

WE, THE Canadian public, seem to be far more concerned over the deaths and casualties resulting from the ill-fated Cuban invasion, the spreading civil war in Laos and the race-riots in South Africa than we are over the killings and maimings of our own people taking place on our own highways and byways almost every hour of the day and night.

It is right that we should be concerned over the sufferings of other people—but it cannot be denied that we should also be equally concerned over the mounting toll of traffic accidents within our own land.

It would be safe to say that the Canadian Highway Safety Council's terse prediction that 40 Canadians will die and 1,000 be injured over this holiday weekend caused no more interest than a passing glance as the average reader thumbed through his daily newspaper.

Perhaps statistics can produce a more startling effect. In the Cuban invasion each side suffered approximately 80 killed and 500 wounded—enough to cause a gasp of horror around the world. In British Columbia during the first three months of this year 74 people were killed—yet hardly a ripple of interest was created.

More statistics? Three of the world's greatest disasters—the Johnstown flood, the Galveston tidal wave and the sinking of the Titanic resulted in 9,726 deaths.

Exactly the same number of people were killed on the highways of North America during the months of June, July and August of 1958. The Johnstown, Galveston and Titanic disasters triggered national and international action on many levels—yet the 1958 tragedies created little—other than local—interest.

As more people drive cars which are now more powerful than ever before the road accident hazard grows greater each day. In the month of March alone in this province 22 men, women and children were killed—an 85 per cent increase over the same month last year.

There is no pat and easy solution to this ever-present horror. The only defence against it lies in the ability and skill of the driver himself. Careful driving and constant observation of the rules of the road can prevent death and injury in 95 per cent of the cases.

The onus therefore is on the driver—let him accept it lest he become yet another unit in the impersonal statistics of death on the road.

Well Under Way

THURSDAY was a day that goes down in the annals of the local university as something special. It was a "first" of its kind for the city's own institution of higher learning, the degree announcements marking the end of the initial four-year courses under its new university status.

The Lansdowne-Gordon Head institution may be said now to be well under way as a university. Physical expansion is still in progress and will be for some years ahead, but academically it has achieved the goal of degree-granting stature.

This week's graduates therefore, no matter the fortunes that fate has in store for them, will be able to look back to their alma mater with the knowledge they belonged to its first graduating class. Number one in anything has a particular cachet, and this is perhaps more significant in education than in any other sphere.

The graduates can look forward to the future with confidence, also, for they have been well coached for the tasks that lie ahead of them. The scholastic record of Victoria College has always been excellent, and its students have won enviable fame in this connection. It was this high quality of teaching and its results, indeed, that spurred local enthusiasts to have a degree-bearing university of the city's own.

This year's examinations amply upheld past records. The proportion of students winning honors was high, in the final and other years, testifying afresh to the influences that should see the Victoria University established in a few years time as one of the leading higher education institutions in the country.

A new era has thus begun for university students who take the full degree schedules in Victoria, bringing assurance and satisfaction to the thousands of local contributors who backed the campaign to provide this area with a university of which to be proud.

Keep Hammering

WITH the next provincial election a long way off, the British Columbia Chamber of Commerce can be regarded as pounding a mountain with a tack-hammer at this time in pressing again for a reappraisal of the financial relationships between municipalities and the B.C. government.

But that does not mean that it should give up. The Chamber's aim in seeking the financial reappraisal has been expressed simply: to curtail demands on local governments for aid to provincial services. The Union of B.C. Municipalities has put it another way, but with the same meaning: to relieve property of taxes for services which are not services to property, but to the people of the province.

In other words, while the provincial government now prides itself on its generosity in helping municipal property-owners to provide such things as schools, hospitals and to a small extent main roads, the municipalities and the Chamber say—and reasonably—that these services should be regarded as provincial; that, in fact, the municipal property-owner is unfairly obliged to help the provincial government provide them, on top of paying as much into the provincial treasury directly and indirectly as the non-property-owner.

The Chamber of Commerce and the UBCM, which represents perhaps 80 per cent of the people of British Columbia and has been virtually unanimous in seeking revision of financial responsibilities and resources, have so far called for action in vain.

But at the last election, although the Social Credit government was returned, its majority was reduced and more than 60 per cent of the votes were cast for candidates of other parties, all offering some degree of revision.

The next election is far off, but it is coming, and there is every reason to keep hammering at the mountain.

"Private enterprise has been dealt another blow. The government wants us to pay for this ourselves"

Interview With Che Guevara

THOUGH not yet a Communist-controlled country in the way that Soviet Russia is, Cuba is rapidly becoming much more ideologically committed to a Marxist doctrine. The instruction of young people in this philosophy is also being pushed ahead as quickly as resources allow, with the help of Communist literature and of Communist Party lecturers, some from Iron Curtain countries.

These conclusions can be drawn from an interview with Dr. Che Guevara, Cuban minister for industry, given to me a few days ago in the company of two colleagues, K. S. Karol of L'Espresso, Paris, and Erik de Mauny of the BBC.

Dr. Guevara's job is a wide-ranging one and includes the planning of both industrial and agricultural development and broad financial policy. As second in line to Fidel Castro, he also has the greatest influence on revolutionary theory and direction. In his smart fourth-floor office at the ministry, he wears a loose-fitting militia uniform, his trousers tucked into his boots. It is most unlikely that he is already a member of the Communist Party himself, as has been asserted; he describes himself as "an aspiring Marxist—I'm too modest to call myself a real one."

Though he can speak of the necessity of narrowing down need for discipline, he himself shows an impressively flexible mind.

We asked Dr. Guevara if there was any chance that Cuba would again become a neutralist country if American pressure relaxed. He replied that they had to face great animosity from the capitalist bloc because of the American desire to suppress the revolution by all means. Though Cuba desired universal trade, experience showed that they could rely only on the Socialist countries. His implication was that, as far ahead as could be foreseen, they would have to go on relying on them for survival and development.

They hoped, for instance, to increase sugar production from 6,000,000 to 10,000,000 tons a year. But they had no ships of their own and the Americans would, as in the past, use their influence to prevent their getting transport assistance from any country in the capitalist bloc. Socialist countries were giving them help without conditions and long-term credit.

The Russians were going to build a steel mill for Cuba with a capacity of 500,000 tons.

It is a cylinder about 2½ inches high, filled with liquid gas. When you flick the wheel, the mechanism moves back to release the gas and produces a spark at the same time. When the fuel runs out, you simply throw the whole thing away and buy another.

Manufactured by Tison-Dupont at their factories in Savoy, over 300,000 of the throw-away lighters have already been sold in Paris alone, and the sales seem likely to run into the millions very soon. Dupont, who also manufactures one of the most expensive gas lighters on the market, clearly has no fear of competing against themselves. Gold-plated lighters will continue to sell as well as expensive ballpoint pens. But the revolution is a serious threat to the makers of cheaper conventional lighters.

Baptized "Cricket," the new machine was launched with a lavish advertising campaign which began in March with an exhibition cricket match. At the time this mystified and worried the British colony in Paris, but there was not the slightest suspicion that anyone planned to make a fortune out of a game that was so alien to the French character.

What are needed now are not traffic engineers but hydraulic engineers. Somebody must tell our rulers, before it is too late, that a tub will hold just so much water. This frenzied plumbing job our experts are doing, erecting a magnificent system of pipes, mains, conduits and aqueducts, without first measuring the capacity of the bathtub, sounds a little lighthearted in an increasing number of us.

What happens when the bathtub overflows? What kind of an engineer is it that will turn off the taps? And have we got one of them?

—Shakespeare.

Needless Errors

By MARQUIS CHILDS
from Geneva

IF there is to be a serious investigation of the Central Intelligence Agency, the role played by that agency in the mess in Laos is perhaps more relevant than the share of responsibility which CIA must bear for the Cuban fiasco.

For it would seem from the perspective of those who are trying here to salvage something from the Laotian mess that the degree of direct culpability is greater in the Far East than in the Caribbean.

Final proof of the complete failure of the CIA-Pentagon manoeuvre to create a "strong man" in Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, with a strong government militarily allied with the West, is seen here in the dilemma confronting Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

In the power game with the Soviets, Rusk has had no Laotian card to play. Despite some $300 million in American aid spent largely in supporting 225,000 Laotians—the army and the army's dependents—it has been impossible to get a responsible delegation of the Royal Laotian government to attend the conference. Rusk has found himself sitting by the Lake of Geneva while 6,000 or 7,000 miles away the "strong man," Phoumi Nosavan, created by the CIA, has been known to have been bargaining for the political future of the country with rebel Pathet Lao representatives and with spokesmen for Prince Souvanna Phouma's neutralists.

In short, he has been waiting with what grace he could muster for the rug to be pulled out from under him. It is a luckless position for the American Secretary of State at his first international confrontation with Moscow and Peking.

The major error widely attributed to those with an extensive Laotian background to the CIA in the decision last fall to get rid of Prince Souvanna, Out of the whole unstable basket of Laotian eggs he appears in retrospect to have been the one who might have held some semblance of a government together with a fair range of support. After the decision was taken to replace Souvanna with Phoumi Nosavan it was given the blessing of J. Graham Parsons, who had been ambassador to Vientiane prior to becoming assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs. This made it official and the disintegration that came close to complete catastrophe ran its course.

But the fundamental error was not merely in a cloak-and-dagger intrigue that sought to replace a "doubtful neutralist" with a splendid creation bearing the American imprimatur. It was in trying to create a Western-type army among people who ethnically, religiously, physically and in every other way were simply incapable of being forced into the Western military mould. For this the Pentagon must take the largest share of the blame.

We put weapons as heavy in the small hands of a lowland people that physically they were almost incapable of operating them. We put heavy shoes and undershirts on a tropical people who had lived for centuries in native simplicity.

Their formal military training was a thin veneer over a deeply pacifist Buddhist orientation. They could not bear to train a weapon directly on an enemy. As the army, and with it the army of dependents, grew larger the bill for support grew not arithmetically but geometrically. With all aid forwarded through a setup in Bangkok there were reports of wholesale graft both in Thailand, the beneficiary of a large American air program, and in Laos itself.

The formal military training imposed on the Laotian Army was poor preparation for resisting the incursions of the Pathet Lao guerrillas who were of far more vigorous upland stock. And this, however, incidentally, should be written large for the benefit of those who talk badly about "going into Laos" with outside forces and cleaning up the country.

Whether the lesson will be learned is, in the wake of the Laos mess, the most important of all questions. If it is not learned, then the United States will suffer one comeuppance after another in the Far East. Nothing that Kennedy and Khrushchev could possibly agree upon, if they have their talk, would alter this fact.

In the longer view it may be noted that the tragic miscalculation of trying to impose a Western military pattern on a gentle Buddhist people was a needless error in view of the supreme example of American success in the Far East. That success was, of course, in the Philippines. Having taken the Philippines by conquest and having made an initial error in seeking to impose a military regime, Theodore Roosevelt sent William Howard Taft to be civilian governor and Taft did a magnificent job. He enlisted the American Army as a civilizing agency for education in the ways of the modern world.

That experiment worked. While Manila may be gratified today, there is an enduring legacy of democratic conviction.

One of the dramatic figures in Laos was Capt. Kong Le, who got his special training at Fort Benning in Georgia. After an abortive rebellion that for a time held Vientiane he went over to the Pathet Lao rebels with his faithful battalion. Those who knew Kong Le before his defection said that he wanted education and help for his people. If we fail to hold the Kong Le, if we ignore the bitter lesson of Laos, then there is little ahead but frustration and defeat.

From the Scriptures

Sing unto the Lord, all the earth; shew forth from day to day His salvation.—I Chronicles, 16:23.

they wanted: "The time is past for café discussions."

J. Malero Ferguson writes: Perhaps the most notable thing about this interview is Dr. Guevara's utter self-confidence. Such assurance might be expected from enthusiastic students, flushed with victory, or from Fidel Castro himself in his more manic moments. But Che Guevara is a hard-headed realist who can buttress his arguments with facts and figures.

In the circumstances, too, his tone is remarkably moderate, particularly when compared with the emotional utterances which have come from leading figures in the United States both before and after the failure of the counter-revolution. There is an impressive lack of passion in his references to the United States, and in this he reflects the state of mind of most of his countrymen. It is ironic that throughout this business it is the "Latin" Cubans who have kept their heads and their tempers and their sense of proportion and the "Anglo-Saxon" Americans who seem with few exceptions, to have lost all three, if only temporarily.

Of course to United States eyes Dr. Guevara's open and indeed proud espousal of Marxism and his willingness to rely economically on the Soviet bloc, are enough to damn him from the start. But he does not talk like a Communist—even a Titoite Communist—still less like a fellow-travelling dupe. He obviously has a shrewd mind of his own and puts Cuba first. The Communists, wisely, seem willing to leave it at that.

This, of course, is just what the Americans are not prepared to do. They are quite right (as Guevara himself states) in believing that the Fidelistas want to export their ideas to other Latin countries, and that one way to forestall this is to promote rapid social reform: indeed several conservative Latin American governments have come to the same conclusion.

But any access of goodwill this may bring is liable to be nullified if accompanied by distributive justice. Particularly if Cuban leaders like Guevara refrain from answering in kind. It is an advertising maxim that "knocking copy" doesn't sell.

Finally, Guevara's statement that "the time for café discussions is past" expresses a truth that Castro's opponents should heed. For years Latin American intellectuals and politicians have talked while soldiers and landlords acted. Cuba has changed all that, and anyone dealing with Latin America today must take account of that fact, whatever course the revolution may take.

With a Clangy Bell

A TYPIST complete with a period 1920 typewriter—a museum piece with a rather loud and clangy bell—is about to be selected to play her machine at the Festival Hall in conjunction with the London Philharmonic Orchestra.

The work to be performed is Erik Satie's "Parade."

Mr. John Pritchard is to conduct the work and he has already been inundated by applicants who aspire to become the musical typist.

The winning candidate as visualized by Mr. Pritchard will probably be "a girl with fantastic-shaped glasses, streamlined and glossy—like a rather glamorous and typical American secretary."

She will also have to be a "really fast touch typist, whose typing will sound rhythmic and professional. There will be no notation in the score but just a cue and a squiggly line showing the length of time."

I am seriously considering entering myself and although, at the moment I don't wear fantastic-shaped glasses and am not particularly streamlined and glossy like a rather glamorous and typical American secretary, no doubt a few structural and decorative adjustments can be made.

I have many qualifications. In a fast passage I simply cannot be overtaken and my controlled glissando on the bends brings spectators to their feet.

When X Equals E

My training on the keyboard is unrivalled and I spent some time in the hard and bitter school of practising on a typewriter that always printed "X" when I struck a "c."

This period was the equivalent of a battle school and I emerged an extremely competent performer.

I have used a typewriter in jet aeroplanes, underneath the arches, in a cemetery, at a hydrogen bomb explosion in the Pacific, and all over the world from Waikiki Beach to Gath where you tell it not—and can thus lock the darn thing up.

I am not one of those overspecialized types who play by touch alone.

I play by sight, by ear, by touch, by smell and by Gum! I do not suffer from harmful accuracy and when I sit down at the keyboard its a sighy for sore eyes two see the quick brown fox jump over the lazy dog.

See you at the Festival Hall.

Open-Air Life

Pupils and teacher alike, in the Blackdown High School at Leamington, were asked in a census who they would prefer to be out of a five-fold choice: A Caveman. Julius Caesar. Lady Godiva. A Gamekeeper. Or, a Beatnik.

The Caveman was an outsider—nobody wanted to go back to the Stone Age. Julius Caesar was nowhere. Twenty per cent voted for Lady Godiva and 21 per cent would have liked to have been a Beatnik. But the easy winner was the Gamekeeper, who scored 40 per cent.

D. H. Lawrence seems to have spread his net far and wide. I liked the thoughtful comment from a master who said simply: "A healthy sort of life."

Old Devil Coal

The definition of coal is that it is "a hard, opaque black or blackish mineral of carbonized vegetable matter."

My view is that this mineral is a thundering nuisance. It is too much mixed up with the misery of mankind. Ten years ago you couldn't get the stuff and, if you could, much of it was stale. Two years ago the country was burning with unsold coal.

The coalowners of the past, by and large, were a raffish crew—from the days when children worked in the pits to the times of the hunger marches in the twenties.

Disaster, dirt and disease have too often been its handmaidens.

Now we have this crazy, muddled-up business of the Steel Company of Wales applying to buy coal from the United States.

The nearest American coalmine is in Pennsylvania—about 3,300 miles away from Margam.

The steel people have a strong case if they are not to be priced out of the market and must make every saving they can. The industry buys twenty-five million tons of coal annually and if they can save up to thirty shillings a ton, as seems likely on American coal, there are strong reasons to do so.

The miners, too, have a very understandable case and, if they think that buying coal from the United States is on a par with sending them to New Caledonia, can blame them? Old Devil Coal still knows how to stake the fires of trouble.

Green's Plea Gets Action Russia Gives In on Laos

GENEVA (CP)—The Soviet Union agreed Friday to help in hurrying helicopters, planes and trucks to Laos for the international control commission so it can enforce a truce. It was the first major action of the Geneva conference after four days of debate.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who has stalled the conference with demands for veto power over the commission's work, gave the go ahead at the insistence of Canada.

Gromyko agreed with External Affairs Minister Howard Green that there is urgent need to get transport and communications equipment to the Indian-Canadian-Polish commission in the Southeast Asian kingdom.

"I think we have won a great victory," Green told reporters. State Secretary Dean Rusk also was pleased about the way the Canadian had swung Gromyko around.

Most Urgent Needs

The 14-power conference sent a message to the three-power commission asking it to list its requirements. Sources said light planes and at least four helicopters are the most pressing needs.

The action came as foreign ministers began to head for home, leaving the conference work of trying to establish a neutral Laos to their deputies. Green left for Ottawa, leaving Chester Ronning, high commissioner to India, in charge of the Canadian delegation.

Indian Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon told reporters before he left for home he understood the U.S., British and Soviet governments are ready to furnish equipment for the truce teams. Indian and Canadian pilots will fly Western airplanes and helicopters and Polish pilots will fly Soviet machines.

Menon said he thought prospects are favorable for a solution in Laos, torn by rivalry between the royal Lao government on one side and the Communist-led Pathet Lao and the neutralists of ex-premier Prince Souvanna Phouma on the other.

The conference adjourned until Monday afternoon.

Letters to the Editor

On Wrong Side

Over 14 years of driving many different makes of cars, well on a million miles, have convinced me that our principal highway driving grief stems from the fact that we drive on the wrong side, not of the road but, of the car.

Who among us has not mentally cursed, at times, at the grief of parking in a narrow space? With the width of our car between us and the curb and not able to see exactly, we back and fill, often ramming our rear right tire against the sharp edge of the curb. Seated on the curb side, we would be able to see exactly what we were doing.

It is a well-known fact that, in driving a self-propelled vehicle, it has a strong tendency to follow the eye, or line of sight. Consider when we were learning to ride a bicycle, every time we fixed our eyes on a stone or hole in the path ahead we would invariably hit it, and this until we learned to look past it. It is so with a car. The average driver keeps his eye on the centre line and unconsciously is drawn towards it.

Also cautious drivers have much the same feeling towards road edge (which they can't see for the car width) that the sailors of Columbus had towards sailing farther west.

In passing the car ahead, our driver would be able to see the exact distance to keep from it and not, as so often at present, yaw away across the centre line and directly into the path of the on-coming traffic.

In night driving, there can be little grounds for contra-argument. How many of us can drive, say to Nanaimo and back, at night on a busy weekend, without undue eye strain and headache caused by the glare of the on-coming headlights? On the left side of the car, we are right in line of them while, on the right or outside, we would be well out of the line of glare and have little or no trouble keeping our distance from the edge. Also on wet and foggy nights, while the pavement has a tendency to absorb light, the gravel shoulders show up clear and well.

No Compassion

"He should not be on the bus!"—a remark overheard re an East Indian fellow-passenger, spoken by an older woman of white skin, the color of whose heart I know not, but without compassion in it.

He had dropped his white cane, was aged and uncertain of step!

Who can choose what color they are born? Behavior is what counts, or should!

Yugoslavian Camps

Nazi Exterminators Pointed to Eichmann

JERUSALEM (UPI)—The Israeli prosecution yesterday used sworn statements by former Nazi officials to label Adolf Eichmann as the man who gave the orders which sent 60,000 of Yugoslavia's 75,000 Jews to their deaths during the Second World War.

The depositions were submitted to the special court trying the former SS officer on charges of the mass murders of 6,000,000 European Jews.

Alexander Arnon, 63, former secretary of the Jewish community in Zagreb, told the court that only 15,000 Jews escaped the Nazi murder machine.

The prosecution submitted transcripts of the postwar Yugoslav military tribunal interrogations of three high-ranking Nazi officials in occupied Yugoslavia. They were SS Gen. August Meisner, Nazi police chief in Yugoslavia; SS Col. Hans Helm, leader of a mobile "Einsatz" extermination squad, and a Dr. Fuchs who was commander of all extermination groups in Yugoslavia.

In his statement, Helm said the squads got their orders

Nazi Guard Faces Death

BERLIN (UPI)—East German prosecutor Werner Funk has demanded the death penalty for a Nazi guard accused of taking part in the execution of more than 1,000 Russians.

The guard, Wilhelm Schaefer, 39, is on trial before the East German Supreme Court. He is accused of personally shooting between 100 and 150 Russians and aiding in the executions of the others.

Greek Had the Words For Juvenile Trouble

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—One expert's opinion on youth was recalled by Dr. Edward Pratt of the University at Texas at a medical meeting.

The expert's view: "Our youth how love luxury. They have bad manners, contempt for authority. They no longer rise when their elders enter the room. They contradict their parents, chatter before company, gobble their food and tyrannize their teachers."

Pratt said the situation obviously needed to be remedied, but added Socrates did not say what should be done when he wrote those lines in the fifth century B.C.

De Gaulle Decree

Stay on Job Strikers Ordered

PARIS (Reuters) — President de Gaulle Friday decreed powers for the government to requisition workers to meet a wave of industrial unrest.

The decree empowers cabinet ministers concerned to order strikers in nationalized industries and public services to remain at work under pain of fines or prison sentences.

The government decision, at a special cabinet session, came shortly after the end of a rail strike for higher pay and a 24-hour stoppage of other transport workers which, combined with four-hour walkouts by gas and electricity workers, caused widespread confusion Thursday.

The strike move by the state-owned industries involved 500,000 workers. More than 1,000,000 civil servants and teachers are threatening a new 24-hour strike shortly.

Sit With Americas Pearson Urges

BROCKVILLE, Ont.—Canada should join the Organization of American states without further delay. Liberal leader Lester Pearson said here last night.

In a departure from a prepared text that promised only sympathetic consideration for OAS membership, Mr. Pearson told a political meeting

East Indians Brought As B.C. Mill 'Slaves'

British Columbia labor officials last night charged that East Indians are being imported into Canada as "slave labor" in lumber mill operations.

In Victoria, IWA business agent Jack MacKenzie said he had heard rumors of similar conditions in this area, but the union had not been able to "put our finger on it."

KAMLOOPS MAN

Charge was first laid in Vancouver yesterday by Dick Larsen, president of Kamloops and District Labor Council.

Larsen said an organization headed by an East Indian lawyer, whom he did not identify, arranges the importation of the laborers who, in return for their fare and entry into Canada, work in sawmills at 75 cents an hour, about a dollar under the union rate.

He added that those employed in union mills get the going wage but "kick back" part of their income.

Larsen told the council he had evidence that hundreds of unemployed men are offering their services at interior mills at $1 an hour, instead of the union scale of $1.75.

HALF-STARVED

He charged mill operators are making a killing "on these poor, half-starved people (the East Indians) and something should be done."

Mr. MacKenzie said last night he would hesitate to say the practice was being carried out in local mills but added he felt confident Mr. Larsen would be sure of his facts before laying the charge.

"But," he said, "there are unorganized East Indian opera-

"But in the world in which we live Canada can play a particularly valuable role in just that kind of job-mediation," he said.

In Ottawa, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Friday the Canadian government is still considering whether to join the community.

He told the Commons no commitment on membership was given to President Kennedy here earlier this week, and he was non-committal when asked whether Canada will reach its decision before the July 15 conference in Uruguay.

He said there probably will be an invitation for Canada to attend the meeting and, if so, Canada will accept.

Tiny Town Adopts Climbers

SQUAMISH (CP)—The 1,500 inhabitants of this logging town 50 miles north of Vancouver have thrown their support behind two university students determined to become the first climbers to reach the summit of the town's 1,000-foot mountain.

Jim Baldwin, 25, Prince Rupert, and Ed Cooper, 31, Seattle, have been at work for 10 days making footholds up the sheer rock face of the (Mieftain).

The townspeople "adopted" the enterprise when they heard the climbers were broke.

Defunct Firm Fined Over Tax

A former Victoria firm, out of business since last June, yesterday was fined $25 and $3.50 costs for failing to file an income tax return for 1959.

Sidney T. Anderson, spokesman for Western Heating Ltd., said it was not possible to file a return at the time because the firm was in the midst of a big job and lacked necessary figures.

Magistrate William Ostler said it was required by law to file "a return," complete or not.

Also in city court, Donald Paterson, 1843 Crescent, was fined $30 for giving false statements of earnings when claiming unemployment insurance.

Three men—two in Oak Bay and one in Colwood—were fined $50 each for consuming liquor in a public place. They were Harold A. Grouette, 935 Wychbury, and Murray R. Gray, Work Point, in Oak Bay, and Rennie Scott, 886 Toimie, in Colwood.

Also in Oak Bay, Delano F. Mitchell, 831 Hockley, was fined $20 for being a minor in possession of liquor.

Bonner Plan Disclosed

WEST VANCOUVER (CP)—Attorney-General Bonner wants an RCMP officer in control of all B.C. police departments in the event of a civil emergency. It was learned here.

B.C. police chiefs meeting in Victoria a month ago approved the proposal.

Details of the plan were made known Thursday at West Vancouver's police commission meeting. Two commissioners charged such a move would challenge municipal authority.

Garden Notes

Cuttings Like Sweep

By M. V. ORENTZ, FERN

One very common human trait is a desire to get something for nothing. This is why we bet on the horses, buy tickets on the Irish sweepstakes and take cuttings from our plants. I know that even after years of gardening I still get an unholly avaricious thrill out of acquiring a couple of choice shrubs from bits and pieces stuck in the ground as cuttings.

With many of our best shrubs and trees, cuttings are difficult and sometimes almost impossible to root. Layering is a method that works much more surely, for this is like taking a cutting with an umbilical cord connecting mother to child until the baby is ready to be weaned.

Many plants layer themselves naturally. The strawberry runner is a good example, as is the blackberry cane that arches over and roots its tip in the ground to make a new plant, but this is also a good way to propagate the more difficult plants such as rhododendrons. In fact, I can't think of any plant with low-hung branches which cannot be induced to root if a notched branch is pegged firmly in the soil and kept nicely moist.

The layering operation can be performed at almost any time of the year but it is generally better and more convenient to do the job when the parent plant is growing strongly and the low branches are sappy and flexible. With most shrubs, you find these conditions between May and early August.

The idea is to select a low branch, growing out horizontally near the ground—capable of being bent to reach the ground—and between pencil thickness and a 1/2-inch diameter.

At a point somewhere along the length of the branch—a point at which you wish to grow some roots—remove all twigs and leaves, and with a sharp knife, make a notch in the underside and about halfway through. Then work the knife up into the head of the notch and split the branch toward the growing tip for a distance of two to three inches. Wedge a pebble or a bit of match stick into the split to keep it open and the layer is ready for pegging down.

It is best to scoop out a hole immediately below the notch and fill it with a mixture of damp peat moss, coarse sand and good topsoil. Press the layer firmly into this mixture and peg it down with oversize wire "hairpins," or cover with a heavy stone or a brick to hold everything in place and to conserve moisture around the notched portion.

It is most important to prevent any movement while the roots are forming, and to this end, it is a good idea to stake and tie the free end of the branch.

With the more difficult shrubs, the layers take from 12 to 15 weeks to root, although this can be speeded up considerably by dusting the cut surface of the notch with a hormone rooting powder such as Rootone or Seradix. The soil mixture surrounding the wound should never be allowed to dry out, as the new roots emerging from the cut surface would perish in a few hours under bone dry conditions.

In due course, when a nice set of roots has formed, the branch is severed from the parent plant and the new shrub transplanted carefully to its flowering position.

Hollywood Today

Just for Old Timesville!

HOLLYWOOD—Kim Novak's current dates with director Richard Quine are strictly for Old Timesville. The man who insists he will marry her is a millionaire Mexican, Fernando Hernandez. Kim has trembled on the brink of marriage many times. She is now 26, and is in the mood to take the plunge.

And Marilyn Maxwell is hoping that one of the gentlemen she dates, Rock Hudson and Glenn Ford, will be in a similar mood. A single lady in our town has been in a similar mood. A single lady in our town has been in a similar mood. A single lady in our town has been in a similar mood.

George Raft, who has never seen any of his movies, and who never takes a drink, is happy over the choice of Ray Danton to portray him on the screen. "Ray's better looking than I ever was, and that's all to the good," says Gorgie.

While Peter Lawford was in Cannes for the film festival with his wife Pat, sister of President Kennedy, he was given the kind of homage usually reserved for royalty. Pete is back in Hollywood now to star with Rita Hayworth and the clan in "Badlands." Coming up for the clan members is "The Great Train Robbery."

While being romantic, everyone seems to know about the romance between Nancy Kwan of "Flower Drum Song" and Maximilian Schell of "Judgment at Nuremberg," except a man who would like to know—Nancy's father. "I haven't mentioned Max to him in my letters," Nancy admitted to me. "We're not engaged, you know, and I think it's too early to talk of marriage. In Hollywood, people are just as anxious to get people married as they are to second-guess a separation or a divorce." However, Nancy added, when she goes home to Hong Kong for a visit, Schell will accompany her. And her father will be told.

Pretty Tina Turner studies at University of California (Los Angeles) several evenings a week. I'm taking 20th-Century literature and poetry," she told me. "Also, second-year Italian. I was in Italy a year and a half and I want to keep up on things."

Pretty Jane Fonda will star in "Night Circus" following her "Walk on the Wild Side." "Night Circus," with Jackie Blake, was not too successful on Broadway. Jane is hoping for better luck with the film—at Columbia. And a movie can be better than the play.

City's Traffic Dream Destined for Ash Bin

Curtis Backs Quadra For Blanshard Role

Victoria's long-cherished $1,000,000 dream of transforming go-nowhere Blanshard Street into a major north-south traffic artery yesterday seemed headed for the ash bin.

Instead, at far lower cost, the city may expand its widening and reconstruction program on Quadra Street and thus take advantage of Saanich municipality's Quadra remedial project.

FOUND FAVOR

The Quadra Street alternative was propounded yesterday by city finance chairman Ald. Austin Curtis and found immediate favor with Mayor Percy Scurren and works chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgell.

The scheme is based on the theory that Douglas Street, already carrying capacity rush-hour traffic, could handle all incoming and outgoing Island Highway traffic provided it is relieved of part of the Patricia Bay Highway load.

Quadra, which joins the Patricia Bay Highway just south of Royal Oak, would bleed off much of the traffic now using Douglas and still route it into the city centre.

Ald. Curtis pointed out the Blanshard Street extension has these disadvantages:

- It would cost far more than Quadra.

- Its extension would necessitate eliminating four to five acres of Topaz Park and purchasing additional property adjoining the park.

- It would funnel a lot of traffic away from the city's downtown area and to the doorstep of Dominion Construction Co.'s $1,000,000 Saanich shopping centre now building at Douglas and the Island Highway.

- The provincial government has offered no financial assistance on the grounds it would be an arterial highway.

Quadra Street has already qualified as an arterial highway in Saanich and presumably would be considered the same in Victoria.

Ald. Curtis said he had been considering the proposal for some time and discussed it with the mayor 10 days ago before putting it in writing and circulating it to other council members.

ACUTE NEED

Earlier this year Mayor Scurren foresaw the need to borrow the $1,000,000 for Blanshard Street because of the acute need to relieve the strain on Douglas.

Asked to comment on the Curtis plan, the mayor said: "I think it is right. It makes a lot of sense to me."

'Retirement Trade' Best Bet for City

Catering to retiring Canadians is "the only real industry" which can be developed in the Victoria area, New Party candidate Glen Hamilton said last night.

"We should try to develop Saanich and Victoria the way Florida has done in the United States," he said in a byelection campaign meeting at Tomin CCF hall.

Success of this plan would depend upon the federal government introducing a social security measure providing pensions and medical care to senior citizens, he said.

"The government should provide a basic pension of $75 per month at the age of 65."

This area would then become prosperous and stable on a year-round basis, he suggested.

U.S. CONTROL HIT

Borden Dowling, MLA for Burnaby, speaking in support of Mr. Hamilton, said it is "not good for Canada" that about 65 per cent of this nation's industry is controlled by American capital.

If Canadian products threaten an American market, the American directors force their Canadian subsidiaries to withdraw from the market, he said.

Mr. Dowling said German and Japanese interests are also encroaching on Canadian markets. He charged the Conservative government has failed to protect Canadian industry.

Dog Trainer's Glasses Are Going to the Dogs

Peter Bruton's Capital Notebook

his kennel assistant when he got home Tuesday night.

"Queenie?" asked the surprised youth. "Queenie's been in her kennel all day. You took the wrong dog."

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE: When the army cadets marched off behind the Sea Cadets after the Commonwealth day service at the legislative buildings yesterday, the army band was playing: "There's Something About a Sailor."

DEBAGGED: One of the young lads about town will think twice before he tries to get behind the scenes at the harem show at the fair midway again.

Officials sent an Alaskan police dog in after him and the screams were horrible, to say the least. He finally emerged sans pants and sans most of his shirt.

SOUR GRAPE: Canada's two splinter parties—Social Credit and the CCF-in-disguise "New Party"—have taken to bombing the local press.

Premier Bennett started it all and it was characteristic of him. He and Social Credit have made quite a few gains in the past through attacking the press. But Premier Bennett is an astute politician and knows what he is doing.

Unfortunately the same thing can't be said about Glen Hamilton.

Mr. Hamilton is not a strong candidate.

Mr. Hamilton made top CCF politicians literally squirm in embarrassment when he spoke at a $10-a-plate dinner for Premier Tommy Douglas of Saskatchewan.

Mr. Hamilton is desperately trying to find some issue on which he can peg his campaign but even in this he was lost until Premier Bennett gave him the idea.

Mr. Hamilton is a theorist who has never lived under the socialist economy he wants to force upon us all.

I have.

That, of course, is another story.

Insofar as publicity is concerned, Mr. Hamilton has done exceptionally well, a view which is held by his campaign manager Gordon Stevenson who last Monday praised the coverage.

Mr. Hamilton says: "If the Conservative and Liberal parties nominated wooden dummies these two (local) papers would rally to their support with editorials."

That's not true.

You see, that's the reason not many editorials are written in favor of Mr. Hamilton.

Hopes Fading For Lost Pair

With fading hopes and in reduced numbers, searchers were continuing the hunt this morning for Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Neaves, 123 South Turner, missing from a fishing trip Wednesday off Sidney.

Early Votes Cast Today

First votes in the May 29 Esquimalt-Saanich federal byelection will be cast today, by voters who can't be here on election day.

The advance polls will open at 9 a.m. at St. Luke's Church Hall, St. Martin's in the Field Church, and at Saanich Hall, Sidney.

Saanich Rejects Pay Hike

Saanich council and almost 200 employees are still deadlocked over wages, three months after contract negotiations began.

Saanich Municipal Employees' Association asked for a five-per-cent, across-the-board wage increase Feb. 13.

REJECTED OUTRIGHT

On March 23, at a meeting with employees, Coun. Joseph Casey, chairman of Saanich finance committee, refused to consider any salary increases. Agreement was reached on other items.

At a meeting this week, the committee rejected revised wage demands calling for a four-cent-an-hour increase retroactive to Jan. 1, a further three cents an hour increase Sept. 1, and a further three cents an hour increase May 31, 1962.

Seen in Passing

ANGUS MACDONALD

The couple, 24 and 19 years old, went out about 6.30 p.m. from Randle's Landing on Shoal Harbor in a friend's boat. Their seven-month-old German shepherd, Duchess, went with them.

Two hours later the boat was spotted by a naval reserve plane. No one was aboard but the dog.

SEARCH HITS PEAK

Led by Sidney RCMP, search for the Neaves built up through Thursday and hit a peak yesterday.

Taking part were the RCMP vessels Victoria as command ship, and Sidney from Ganges; the Stranger II belonging to Capt. F. E. Lewis of Coal Island, and eight or 10 other smaller craft whose owners volunteered their services.

SCANNED FROM SKY

From above, the waters were scanned by a Search and Rescue plane from Vancouver, the RCMP's Grumman Goose and a department of transport helicopter.

Search along nearby U.S. islands was led by a U.S. Coast Guard cutter and helicopter from Port Angeles.

Beaches and shorelines of every island were inspected at close range by small speedboats.

Clowns Abound In Big Parade

There will be no shortage of clowns in Monday's Victoria Day parade.

At least 20 individual clown entries as well as a batch of clown groups will enliven proceedings along the parade route.

But Greater Victoria Celebrations Association officials say there is always room for more—but 'they'll have' to bring their own costumes. The rush of volunteer funnymen has depleted the wardrobe of the association.

Parade officials announced Friday that number of entries in the parade now totals 172, not including horse groups, for which no definite figure was available.

Chatterton Strikes Back

Why Ignore Local Issues?

Liberal speakers are showing incredible political ignorance, Reeve George Chatterton charged last night.

"I don't like attacking a fellow Conservative party member like David Groos," he said, "but his claim that local issues are of no importance is incredible."

Socialist Scorns Publicity

Socialist candidate Donald Polier last night denied he is taking part in the May 29 Esquimalt-Saanich byelection "mainly for publicity."

"The reason for the existence of the Socialist Party of Canada is for the establishment of socialism," he said.

Sky Flash Seen Afar

A flash of light across the night sky that appeared to end in an explosion in the mountains beyond Port Angeles was reported by scores of Victorians last night.

The United States Coast Guard station at Port Angeles reported it had received dozens of reports of the mysterious sighting.

Reports flooded the station from Victoria, Nelson, Vancouver, Seattle, Bremerton and as far south as Portland, Ore.

Green to Speak Here If Laos Talks Recess

External Affairs Minister Howard Green will take part in the May 29 Esquimalt-Saanich byelection only if his duties permit.

Mr. Green is slated to speak in support of Reeve George Chatterton, Progressive Conservative candidate in the by-election, at Lansdowne Junior High School, 8 p.m. Tuesday.

"The minister of external affairs is representing Canada at the Laos conference in Geneva at present and that comes first, of course," a spokesman for Reeve Chatterton's campaign committee said last night.

A Candlelight Ceremony For Corder-Gardiner Vows

Flickering candles shed a soft light on the lovely arrangements of iris, lily-of-the-valley and dogwood in First Baptist Church in Newberg, Oregon, for the recent ceremony in which Miss Eleanor Anne Gardiner became the bride of Mr. Leon Corder.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John George Gardiner, 642 Niagara Street, was given in marriage by her father, and wore for the ceremony a ballerina-length gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle. The basque bodice was fashioned with a Sabrina neckline and lily-point sleeves. A sequin coronet held her chapel veil, and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Attending the bride were maid of honor, Miss Judy Leigh, cousin of the bride, in a yellow taffeta dress with bouquet of white carnations.

Bridesmaids were Miss Connie Gardiner, sister of the bride, in pink organza and a bouquet of yellow carnations, and Miss Lawanda Corder, sister of the groom, in a blue dress with pink carnation bouquet.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Corder, Newberg, Oregon, had Mr. Norman Bale as best man. Ushers were Mr. J. Corder and Mr. O. Weaver.

Rev. Frank Wiens officiated at the ceremony. The newlyweds, assisted by their parents, received guests in the church hall, where a buffet supper was served. Hostess was the bride's aunt, Mrs. A. J. Leigh. Miniature roses topped the three-tier wedding cake which was cut by the bride and groom.

Leaving for a honeymoon trip up the Oregon coast, the bride wore a blue suit with black accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Corder will make their home in Portland, Oregon.

"We like what's been done in British Columbia in the past nine years. That's why we want to see Social Credit representation in Ottawa. Just look at our roads, bridges and ferries. These are the results of sound government all the way around. George Hahn has Federal experience in Ottawa, too. When he talks about grants for schools, reclamation of the Gorge, and other works projects... he knows what he's talking about. We feel George Hahn will make B.C.'s needs known in Parliament back in Ottawa."

Tots in Vanishing Act

Huge crowds flocking to Victoria Exhibition this year are bringing special problems to the Jaycees running the fair. "We set two records to-night," one Jaycee said wearily last night. "We had the biggest single night of this year or last year with more than 22,000 patrons—and we averaged one lost child every five minutes."

Some 60 children were separated from their parents by the crush of patrons between 7 p.m. and midnight, he said. With more good weather predicted for today, the last day of the exhibition, Jaycees expect even bigger crowds and even more lost children.

Gates open at 10 a.m. today, four hours earlier than on weekdays.

At 3.30 p.m. the first variety show, featuring The Charmers, a girl vocal trio from Hollywood, will be staged. The second show will be held at 10.30 p.m.

At 8 p.m. the 10 Miss Victoria contestants will present their last fashion show and about 9 p.m. the winner will be announced. She will be crowned with a new, $300 jeweled crown specially made for the contest.

The main door prize, a 1961 Chevrolet Bel Air sedan, will be drawn on the arena stage at 11.15 p.m. and at 11.30 the major prize, the $10,000 Chris Craft Cavalier cruiser will be won by some lucky patron. Exhibition ends at midnight.

Dimples Flash At Coronation

Camera shutters clicked like a volley of hailstones and Queen Cobina dimpled prettily at Esquimalt May Queen coronations in Kinsmen-Gorge Park yesterday.

Coronation ceremonies for the 13-year-old, tawny-haired queen went smoothly, from the introductory march, played by Esquimalt Junior High School band, to Maypole dancing and gymnastics that wound up the program.

Queen Cobina Herrington was crowned by Mrs. R. F. Bruce, wife of the commanding officer of 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, before a crowd of 500 onlookers.

In attendance at her "court" were Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele and Mrs. Wurtele, MLA Herbert Bruch, Mayor Percy Scurrell and Mrs. Scurrell, Reeve George Murdoch and Mrs. Murdoch of Oak Bay, and Coun. Gregory Cook of Saanich.

Master of ceremonies was Esquimalt Coun. James Bryant.

Personal attendants to the new queen were princesses Diana Ferguson and Siska Baarda, ladies-in-waiting Beverly Hermiston and Phyllis Durrell, flower girls Susan Austin and Bonnie Danyleyko and page boys Deborah Furness and Julie Ann Duncan.

A Queen Is Crowned

Advertiser Disarmed

VANCOUVER (CP)—Firing advertising circulars onto front porches from compressed-air bazookas is illegal, the city prosecutor's department has advised Vancouver police.

Now it's up to the concern which launched the scheme to decide whether it will go to court to challenge the ruling.

Lyle Muncester was stopped by police this week as he cruised a residential street bombarding porches with bundles of advertising from the over-size argus, mounted on both sides of a car.

TALK

Regretfully, we report that Channel 4's Challenge program, one of the best programs of its type on the air, ends May 28.

It is also one of the simplest in format—a Jew, a Roman Catholic and a Protestant sitting down and discussing, each from his own viewpoint, usually-taboo questions.

But, happily, we find that Channel 4 will bring Challenge back again Sept. 10 in a new series. It is worth waiting for.

"Wow! Listen to the new word I just picked up from the Jack Paar show!"

Trouble Brewing in Britain Over Jump in Immigration

LONDON (Reuters) — The British government is facing continuing pressure to deal with sharply increased immigration from Commonwealth countries — particularly the West Indies.

Cabinet ministers are concerned about the effects, particularly in producing housing problems and over-crowding in certain areas.

But sources say the government has no intention of introducing legislation to curb it.

In the present session of Parliament which continues until late fall.

They say there would be the greatest reluctance to take any steps conflicting with Britain's traditional "open door" policy toward Commonwealth and colonial citizens.

They rule out the possibility of any action discriminatory of race or color. If any controls are eventually applied they will be general to all immigration, the sources say.

There have been speculative press reports that there is a potential conflict at cabinet level on how the immigration problem should be handled.

EXAMINE PROBLEM

But political sources point out that the problem has to be looked at in relation to any possible future British association with the six-nation common market, where the principle of free movement of labor among member countries applies.

The Sunday Dispatch, a Conservative newspaper, said the cabinet has clamped down a ban on Conservative members of Parliament who are campaigning against immigration of Negroes from the West Indies and other Commonwealth countries.

NEW IMPETUS

"The gag gives new impetus to the storm building up in the Conservative party," it said.

The newspaper said Conservative members of Parliament were told secretly that the cabinet will not curb immigration for at least a year but anti-immigration members of Parliament stepped up their campaign.

"Now half a dozen Tory backbenchers have been warned by party leaders: 'Stop making speeches calling for a ban on immigration or else.'"

Smiling Nikita Invades British Moscow Fair

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A jovial Nikita Khrushchev made a two-hour tour of a newly-opened British trade fair here Friday, inspecting everything from wool to whisky.

The Soviet premier turned up unexpectedly with his wife, granddaughter and seven leading members of the Soviet hierarchy on the first day of the 17-day exhibition which Britain hopes will attract 1,000,000 Russian visitors.

Khrushchev was taken on a tour of the fair by British Trade Minister Reginald Maudling and pronounced himself impressed at many of the exhibits.

But Khrushchev cut short one British official who started explaining how Scotch whisky was made.

The Soviet premier laughed and said: "You can't teach me anything about making that sort of thing."

AMONG BEST
Then, before leaving the distillers' stand, Khrushchev smiled broadly and remarked: "Scotch whisky is good, very good. In fact, I rate it among the best."

Khrushchev's conversation with Maudling ranged from steel to soccer as they walked around the fair. The Soviet premier laughed when Maudling referred in his opening speech to British contributions to the world ranging from penicillin to soccer.

Whisky Isn't Mystery

Then, as they inspected an iron and steel exhibit, Khrushchev remarked: "The English make good steel. They taught us how to make it just as they taught us football (soccer)."

Maudling: "We are still teaching you, Mr. Chairman. Our team Aston Villa had a splendid victory over your Soviet combined team the other night."

Khrushchev: "But I think we won the other two games against you."

Maudling: "I agree, you did."

Khrushchev: "In any case sometimes one wins and sometimes one loses. I am all for competition, providing it is honest and fair."

At the wool textile corporations' stand Khrushchev was given a length of jersey fabric. He handed the cloth to Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan and quipped: "Don't go and sell it, otherwise you will find yourself in trouble."

At an exhibit by the Rootes Motor Corporation Khrushchev spent several minutes chatting with Sir Reginald Rootes about the performance of a Hillman Minx.

Khrushchev wanted to know its speed, its weight and its gasoline consumption.

Before he left the stand he was presented with a miniature Minx.

PIPER, DREAM

When Khrushchev left one of the pavilions en route for another he was treated to a display of marching and counter marching by pipes and drums of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders.

He led the applause at the end of the display and was then introduced to the pipe major, who towered over him in his tall bearskin.

Some 677 British firms laid out their goods in an effort to woo official state buyers into ordering shoes, clothing, machinery, textiles and a variety of other products.

Vintners Indignant

EPERNAY, France (AP) — A champagne industry official bubbled over with indignation Wednesday night at a Soviet suggestion that "instant champagne" will revolutionize the business.

"Absolutely fantastic," replied Abel Medard, director of the Inter-Professional Committee of Champagne Wines. "The Soviet method is like a sausage-making machine."

Japan Holding Down Exports to Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Japanese agreement to maintain for 1961 last year's export quota levels on most controlled textile products to transistor radios and radio and TV receiving tubes was announced in the Commons today by Finance Minister Fleming.

He also announced a sharp reduction in the agreed amount of imports of Japanese stainless steel flatware to 642,000 dozen pieces from 1,150,000 dozen last year.

The announcement followed extended negotiations on the 1961 "voluntary controls" to be applied by Japan on shipments of specified goods to Canada. These controls were begun several years ago after Canada complained her industries were being unduly hurt by certain Japanese imports.

RADIO EMBARGO

Last fall Japan agreed to a complete embargo on transistor radio and radio and TV receiving tubes pending agreement on quota controls.

A letter from Japanese Ambassador Toru Hagiwara said export quotas for almost all of the textile products have been continued at 1960 levels, "taking into consideration the adverse conditions in the Canadian textile industry and the general economic situation in Canada."

GRADUAL INCREASES

"With the improvement of the situation in the Canadian market my government will naturally anticipate gradual increases in these export quotas in future years."

The new quota on transistor radios for 1961 provides for the import of a maximum 335,000 radios with three or more transistors. The quota for radio and TV receiving tubes was set at 2,500,000 units.

The Japanese note said, however, that it is understood this quota will not apply to tubes not manufactured in Canada.

Red Missile Sites Pinpointed by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States military leaders believe they know the locations of 37 Soviet missile-launching pads, including one less than 500 miles from Alaska.

And they figure the Russians have 35 to 50 long-range war rockets ready to shoot.

LAUNCH SITES
At least 10 of the reported missile pads have been identified as launch sites for the Soviet Union's 8,000-mile-range T-3 missile, which carries a thermonuclear warhead.

Further, the United States has determined the location of 14 Russian missile and rocket factories.

All of this information appears in the May issue of Military Review, a magazine published by the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

The magazine noted that the data has been compiled from unclassified sources and added, "because of a tight Soviet control over military information, this data is derived from sources which are not necessarily accurate or complete."

CCFer Urges 12-Mile Limit

"Yeah, but every time he opens his mouth, you know what's coming."

CROP-KILLING TYPHOON SLAMS INTO RED CHINA

East Indians 'Slaving' In B.C. Mills

British Columbia labor officials last night charged that East Indians are being imported into Canada as "slave labor" in lumber mill operations.

In Victoria, IWA business agent Jack MacKenzie said he had heard rumors of similar conditions in this area, but the union had not been able to "put our finger on it."

KAMLOOPS MAN

Charge was first laid in Vancouver yesterday by Dick Larsen, president of Kamloops and District Labor Council.

Larsen said an organization headed by an East Indian lawyer, whom he did not identify, arranges the importation of the laborers who, in return for their fare and entry into Canada, work in sawmills at 75 cents an hour, about a dollar under the union rate.

KICKBACK CLAIM

He added that those employed in union mills get the going wage but "kick back" part of their income. Larsen told the council he had evidence that hundreds of unemployed men are offering their services at interior mills at $1 an hour, instead of the union scale of $1.75.

HALF-STARVED

He charged mill operators are making a killing "on these poor, half-starved people (the East Indians) and something should be done."

Mr. MacKenzie said last night he would hesitate to say the practice was being carried out in local mills but added he felt confident Mr. Larsen would be sure of his facts before laying the charge.

UNORGANIZED

"But," he said, "there are unorganized East Indian operations in this area where we are convinced that the East Indians are being paid inferior rates of wages to their counterparts in union plants."

"It is most unfortunate to see some of these operators discriminating against their own people, just as much as any white man did," he said.

TWO CITED

We have contracts with some East Indian operators, such as Acme Sawmill and Plummer Ray Sawmill, which are second to none in their treatment of employees."

In Vancouver, both Pat O'Neal, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, and Paddy Neil, secretary of the Vancouver Labor Council, said their organizations knew of the importation of East Indians as "cheap labor," but the matter had never been raised officially in either body.

RAISED ROOF

Mr. O'Neal said he expected, however, the question would soon be raised before the B.C. Federation.

Mr. Neil, a former business agent for the International Woodworkers of America, said it was a very difficult thing to prove "because we can't get a look at their cheques and the operators mostly keep the East Indians in bunkhouses on the premises."

UNDER THREAT?

The East Indians, he said, are afraid to talk to their white co-workers, possibly under threat of being sent back to India, despite the fact they are brought into Canada legally under the East Indian immigration quota.

Mr. Neil said they apparently are paid the going union rate in union mills but get two cheques, one of which they keep and the other they hand back. This "cheap labor" had penetrated several operations throughout B.C.

Ailing

In Ottawa hospital after his second heart attack in six weeks is Revenue Minister George Nowlan, Nova Scotia's only representative in federal cabinet. He will be away for several weeks.

Bennett Urges 'Chosen Few' To Speak for B.C.

Premier Bennett last night urged Esquimalt-Saanich voters to support Scored George Hahn May 29 to protest "unfair" treatment B.C. receives from Ottawa.

PREMIER BENNETT
... vote for future

Castro Sends Foes to U.S.

HAVANA (UPI)—Premier Castro said today he will send a group of captured invaders to the U.S. later in the day to start negotiations on his proposed prisoners for tractors deal.

Three hundred chaits were put out in the auditorium of Belmont High School for the rally, but only about 185 people turned up.

EMERGENCY

"This is no ordinary byelection, my friends," the premier said. "This is a great emergency. You'll be voting not for George Hahn and Social Credit, but for yourselves and your children and your children's children."

Mr. Bennett charged that if B.C. received its fair share of federal contracts it now receives 2 per cent of the contracts and has 10 per cent of Canada's population, he said—there would be 80,000 more jobs in B.C. today.

THAT'S WHY

He said increased freight rates ordered by Ottawa are "destroying industry in Victoria" and added that's why firms like Sidney Roofing were compelled to move to the mainland.

"Knowing this, you dare not vote for either the Liberals or the Conservatives," the premier said. "You couldn't do it and look at yourself in the looking glass next morning."

NOT A NICKEL

B.C. alone gets "not a single nickel more" than the basic tax returns in the new rental pact while several other provinces get many millions of dollars in "bonuses," he said. "Is it fair? The federal government is taking more money from us, because our wages are high and we pay the most income tax, and dividing the money among the rest of Canada."

"You in Esquimalt-Saanich are the chosen few, you must speak up for all B.C. You expect your premier to speak up. Your premier expects you to speak up."

HONG KONG (UPI)—Typhoon Alice roared through Hong Kong with 100-mile-an-hour winds today and slammed into famine-plagued Communist China.

First reports said three persons died in Hong Kong. Ships, tossed about like corks, collided in the harbor. Property damage ran to tens of thousands of dollars.

The typhoon, which swept across the South China Sea, was the first to strike this British island colony with full fury this year.

The storm battered the refugee-crowded city for more than an hour before moving into Kwangtung province of mainland China threatening severely-needed spring rice crops. The rice was transplanted only last month and is in a tender stage.

Communist China needs all the rice it can get. The Peking regime has reported near-famine conditions in many regions as a result of drought and other natural calamities.

The food shortage on the mainland is so acute that Peking authorities have made huge purchases of wheat and other grains from Australia, Canada and other western countries.

South Africans Cut More Ties

LONDON (CP)—South Africa, which has decided to leave the Commonwealth, began withdrawing its representatives Friday from the specialist committees on which Commonwealth co-operation is based.

The start was made on the Commonwealth education liaison committee, during a meeting considered private.

EDUCATION AID

No official announcement followed but it was reported a South African diplomat told the meeting his government no longer could participate in the committee's operations. The committee was set up two years ago to co-ordinate educational assistance schemes.

MORE SERIOUS

Next step in South Africa's Commonwealth disengagement process, due Wednesday, is considered more serious. Then, for the first time, there will be no South African representative at the annual meeting of senior economic officials who meet to discuss common problems.

WORLD BANK

And there will be no South African representative when the finance ministers meet in September to prepare for the World Bank meeting.

Other Commonwealth groups from which South African representatives have withdrawn or are about to withdraw are:

THREE GROUPS

Commonwealth economic committee, which coordinates trading, financial and economic intelligence reporting; the Commonwealth scientific committee, which exchanges technical information, and the Commonwealth Press Union.

$50,000,000 Fire Hits Teeming Heart of Manila

MANILA (AP)—Manila's worst fire since the Second World War destroyed more than four blocks of teeming Chinatown Friday night and early Saturday, leaving 5,000 people homeless. Damage to the heart of Manila was $50,000,000. There were no reports of deaths but scores were injured.

The blaze, which raged for 12 hours began in a warehouse and swept through 2,000 small shops.

It casually to a fellow worker at the steel plant in Wollongong, 65 miles south of Sydney, where she works as an accounting machine operator. Three weeks later she was presented with the $4,300 needed for the trip.

The money had been raised by fellow workers and members of the Methodist church in the town, which Lynette attends, and another church in a suburb where she teaches Sunday School.

Lynette will enter hospital as soon as she arrives and hopes to return to Australia in August with a heart as good as new.

"You were just that big," Dr. Frank Bryant joked with waitress Evelyn Paterson last night. Dr. Bryant delivered Mrs. Paterson 40 years ago. —(Colonist photo.)

Service by One 'Baby' Real Honor for Doctor

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Dr. Frank Bryant got special attention at dinner last night.

For one thing, he was guest of honor at a dinner held at Victoria Golf Club by Victoria Medical Society to honor him for 50 years of service to the people of this area.

1,308 BABIES

And for another, one of the waitresses for the dinner was Mrs. William Paterson, 1055 Nicholson, one of some 1,300 babies he has delivered in Victoria.

As Evelyn Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Green, 866 Brett Avenue, Mrs. Paterson was born 40 years ago.

SON, TOO

And just 18 years ago, Dr. Bryant delivered Mrs. Paterson's son, Thomas.

"How much did you weigh?" someone asked Mrs. Paterson. "Six and a half pounds," Dr. Bryant said quickly, and held his hands about eight inches apart.

FROM MANITOBA

Born in Russell, Man., in 1885—76 years ago—Dr. Bryant came to Victoria in 1911.

"Those were the days when only three doctors in town had cars," he reminisced. "Most doctors had a horse and buggy and there were hitching rails outside both the hospitals."

BIKE RIDER

"I started my practice here riding a bicycle, but I changed over to renting a horse and buggy after one day when I answered one call to Esquimalt and then had to hurry over to another in Oak Bay. I could hardly walk when I got there."

Dr. Bryant has been president of the B.C. division of the Canadian Medical Association, and was president of Victoria Medical Society in 1931.

OTHER POSTS

He was also president of the medical staff of St. Joseph's Hospital in 1938 and 1946 and has held many other high professional posts.

During the dinner his fellow doctors presented him with an inscribed cigarette case.

But it was hard to tell which he enjoyed most—the dinner or his chat with Mrs. Paterson.

Yesterday's Sun Set New Record

You're right—it WAS hot yesterday... In fact it set an all-time record for May 19. It wasn't the hottest day in May Victoria has ever seen (on May 28, 1947, it was 85 degrees) but the thermometer yesterday registered a high of 79.2 degrees at 4 p.m. at Gonzales Observatory.

Previous record for May 19 was 73.4 degrees in 1946.

Temperatures today, predicts the weatherman, will drop to 70 degrees, with clear skies by afternoon. These conditions are expected to prevail through to Monday.

Summit Parley 'Timely Contact'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—

President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev will meet in Vienna June 3 and 4 to discuss major issues between their two countries, the White House and the Kremlin announced Friday.

The U.S. said the meeting also would afford a timely and convenient opportunity for the first personal contact between the two leaders since entering the White House. It emphasized there would be no attempt to negotiate cold war issues affecting other nations.

Kennedy met Khrushchev in September, 1959, when the premier was visiting Dwight Eisenhower.

After the Khrushchev meeting, the president will go to London for a brief conference with Prime Minister Macmillan. The Khrushchev talks will be preceded by Kennedy's previously announced meeting May 31 June 2 with French President de Gaulle.

Most U.S. allies expressed guarded approval provided it is kept in mind that no settlement of key issues is expected. In London foreign undersecretary Joseph Godber said the meeting would provide an opportunity to "clear the air."

Two More For Space

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. plans to rocket a second astronaut down the Atlantic missile range June 20 and follow with a third around Aug. 1.

Astronauts John Glenn and Virgil Grissom will repeat the May 5 performance of Alan Shepard. Also in June, a dummy in a Mercury spacecraft will be put into orbit with an Atlas missile.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Comedian Chico Marx, 70, pianoplaying member of the Marx Brothers, was taken to hospital Friday night in critical condition. Nature of his ailment was not announced.

Whole Town Sends Girl to Health in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The hopes of hundreds of people in an Australian steel town are travelling with 20-year-old Lynette Walsh, who arrives Monday on the liner Oriana to undergo heart surgery.

Lynette has suffered all her life from mitral insufficiency,

a defect known as "open heart," and her condition has deteriorated during the last few years. Doctors in Sydney advised an operation and suggested Vancouver's General Hospital, widely known for cardiac surgery.

The day after she received the advice, Lynette mentioned

it casually to a fellow worker at the steel plant in Wollongong, 65 miles south of Sydney, where she works as an accounting machine operator. Three weeks later she was presented with the $4,300 needed for the trip.

The money had been raised by fellow workers and mem-

Near-Tragedy at Launching

Spectator Rescues Girl from River

CAMPBELL RIVER — A boat-launching ceremony in the Campbell River had a brush with tragedy Thursday night as a spectator dove into the water to rescue a sinking swimmer.

Several girls were swimming in the vicinity of the launching when suddenly Gloria Jean Willis, 13, shouted for help and sank beneath the surface.

Spectator Joseph Plomondon kicked off his shoes, dived into the river, grabbed the sinking girl and pulled her to shore. She was revived by artificial respiration, but was suffering from shock.

Another spectator, Mrs. Ann Sambrook, took the girl to her home.

Launching ceremony was for a 35-foot cod and salmon fishing craft built by Buford Haines for James McPherson. Mrs. McPherson christened the boat.

Saanich Rejects Pay Hike

Saanich council and almost 200 employees are still deadlocked over wages, three months after contract negotiations began.

Saanich Municipal Employees' Association asked for a five per cent, across-the-board wage increase Feb. 13.

REJECTED OUTRIGHT

On March 23, at a meeting with employees, Coun. Joseph Casey, chairman of Saanich finance committee, refused to consider any salary increases. Agreement was reached on other items.

At a meeting this week, the committee rejected revised wage demands calling for a four-cent-an-hour increase retroactive to Jan. 1, a further three cents an hour increase Sept. 3, and a further three cents an hour increase May 31, 1962.

City's Traffic Dream Destined for Ash Bin

Curtis Backs Quadra For Blanshard Role

Victoria's long-cherished $1,000,000 dream of transforming go-nowhere Blanshard Street into a major north-south traffic artery yesterday seemed headed for the ash bin.

Instead, at far lower cost, the city may expand its widening and reconstruction program on Quadra Street and thus take advantage of Saanich municipality's Quadra remedial project.

POUND FAVOR

The Quadra Street alternative was propounded yesterday by city finance chairman Ald. Austin Curtis and found immediate favor with Mayor Percy Scurrell and works chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgell.

The scheme is based on the theory that Douglas Street, already carrying capacity rush-hour traffic, could handle all incoming and outgoing Island Highway traffic provided it is relieved of part of the Patricia Bay Highway load.

Quadra, which joins the Patricia Bay Highway just south of Royal Oak, would bleed off much of the traffic now using Douglas and still route it into the city centre.

Ald. Curtis pointed out the Blanshard Street extension has these disadvantages:

- It would cost far more than Quadra.

- Its extension would necessitate eliminating four to five acres of Topaz Park and purchasing additional property adjoining the park.

- It would funnel a lot of traffic away from the city's downtown area and to the doorstep of Dominion Construction Co.'s $1,000,000 Saanich shopping centre now building at Douglas and the Island Highway.

- The provincial government has offered no financial assistance on the grounds it would be an arterial highway.

Quadra Street has already qualified as an arterial highway in Saanich and presumably would be considered the same in Victoria.

Ald. Curtis said he has been considering the proposal for some time and discussed it with the mayor 10 days ago before putting it in writing and circulating it to other council members.

ACUTE NEED

Earlier this year Mayor Scurrell foresaw the need to borrow the $1,000,000 for Blanshard Street because of the acute need to relieve the strain on Douglas.

Asked to comment on the Curtis plan the mayor said: "I think it is right. It makes a lot of sense to me."

'Retirement Trade' Best Bet for City

Catering to retiring Canadians is he "only real industry" which can be developed in the Victoria area, New Party candidate Glen Hamilton said last night.

"We should try to develop Saanich and Victoria the way Florida has done in the United States," he said in a byelection campaign meeting at Tolmie CCF hall.

PENSIONS, MEDICAL CARE

Success of this plan would depend upon the federal government introducing a social security measure providing pensions and medical care to senior citizens, he said.

"The government should provide a basic pension of $75 per month at the age of 65."

Some 600 former Tillicum School students took a nostalgic look into the past last night.

They gathered to pay tribute to two of their old teachers and marvel at how wooden desks had shrunk to the point where they no longer offered a sprowly refuge from teacher's eye.

It was the first reunion of pupils who attended the school in the years of 1916 to 1941.

PIONEER TEACHERS

Presentations were made from the former students to pioneer teachers Mrs. Ada Hume, who taught Grade 1 for 25 years (1916 to 1941), and Miss G. N. Hewlings, who taught primary grades in the original, two-room Tillicum School.

The idea of the reunion was the brain-child of five members of Tillicum PTA—Ada Bone, Mrs. Shirley Eden, Mrs. Jean Smith, Mrs. Muriel Lockhart and Mrs. Phyllis Cook.

PRESENTED GIFT

Former students from as far away as California were on hand to see Mrs. Margaret Duncan, now a teacher of St. Ann's Academy, present a gift to her former teacher, Mrs. Hume.

Fred Appleby, whose name appears first on the list of the old two-room Tillicum School roster at the school board office, handed the presentation to Miss Hewlings. He was one of her first class.

A surprise "gift" for Mrs. Hume was the arrival of her son Gavin from Vancouver.

Guns Boom On Birthday

Four guns of the 5th Independent Medium Battery will boom on a 21-gun salute at noon Monday, in observance of the Queen's birthday.

Army officials said the salute will be fired at the Cannaway with 105-mm. howitzers as in all Canadian provincial capitals.

Special Hours At Post Office

Victoria Post Office has advanced its holiday hours for Monday to avoid conflict with the Victoria Day parade.

Postmaster A. M. Davies said last night that Victoria Day patrons find it hard to get to the post office during the usual holiday hours because of traffic congestion.

The public lobby will be open from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. Monday.

Dog Trainer's Glasses Are Going to the Dogs

OVER HILL, OVER DALE: Well-known Vancouver Island professional dog trainer Hunter E. Smith has ordered new glasses.

It all started Tuesday morning when he gathered up a pair of retrievers at his El-Hunt Kennels for the daily retrieving stint he has been doing for visitors to the Jaycee-Colonial outdoors show.

He had used the same pair of dogs Monday and all had gone smoothly, so he was somewhat surprised when he sent one of them off on a short retrieve and watched it disappear over the horizon headed in the general direction of City Hall.

A series of the usually barked commands failed to slow the dog down, so Hunter took off in hot pursuit and finally collared it several blocks away.

In 30 years of training hunting dogs he had never seen one which had completely forgotten everything it had been taught.

"Queenie didn't even know her own name today," he told his kennel assistant when he got home Tuesday night.

"Queenie?" asked the surprised youth. "Queenie's been in her kennel all day. You took the wrong dog."

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE

When the army cadets marched off behind the Sea Cadets after the Commonwealth day service at the legislative buildings yesterday, the army band was playing: "There's Something About a Sailor."

DEBAGGED

One of the young lads about town will think twice before he tries to get behind the scenes at the harem show at the fair midway again.

Officials sent an Alsatian police dog to after him and the screams were horrible, to say the least. He finally emerged sans pants and sans most of his shirt.

Peter Bruton's Capital Notebook

embarrassment when he spoke at a $10-a-plate dinner for Premier Tommy Douglas of Saskatchewan.

Mr. Hamilton is desperately trying to find some issue on which he can peg his campaign but even in this he was lost until Premier Bennett gave him the idea.

Mr. Hamilton is a theorist who has never lived under the socialist economy he wants to force upon us all.

That, of course, is another story.

Insofar as publicity is concerned, Mr. Hamilton has done exceptionally well, a view which is held by the campaign manager Gordon Stevenson who last Monday praised the coverage.

Mr. Hamilton says: "If the Conservative and Liberal parties nominated wooden dummies these two (local) papers would rally to their support with editorials."

That's not true.

You see, that's the reason not many editorials are written in favor of Mr. Hamilton.

Civic Group To Probe Bus Deficit

By TERRY HAMMOND

Greater Victoria transit commission will take a close look at the B.C. Electric Company's claim of a $500,000 bus service operating loss here last year, chairman Mayor Percy Scurrell said yesterday.

His statement came less than 24 hours after the Greater Victoria Inter-municipal committee set up the permanent commission and handed it the task of delving into a BCE proposal to reduce its local bus service by 15 per cent in a bid to cut operating losses.

The mayor admitted he had a hard time reconciling the BCE's claim of a $500,000 transit system loss last year with the fact that the buses are subsidized through electric rates.

ALL OPERATIONS

Consultants to the commission, he said, will be asked to relate the loss figure to the financial position of all BCE operations in the Greater Victoria area.

He said the four commission members, himself and the representatives of Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay, will not delve into the utility accounting system themselves but will expect technical aides to do so.

TWOFOLD PURPOSE

"The B.C. Electric's accounting system would take a Philadelphia lawyer to figure out," the mayor said.

POSSIBLE MOVE

Earlier he told the Colonist it was his conviction that when the present BCE bus franchise runs out the company would turn the public transportation problem over to the municipalities.

UNLIKELY ACTION

He deemed it "most unlikely" that the PUC would allow the BCE to abandon the public transit field here.

MAJOR POINT

Losses sustained by the bus service were a major point in the BCE's last PUC application for a utility rate increase in this area, he recalled.

Ailing

In Ottawa hospital after his second heart attack in six weeks is Revenue Minister George Hahn. Nova Scotia's only representative in federal cabinet. He will be away for several weeks.

HONG KONG (UPI)—Typhoon Alice roared through Hong Kong with 100-mile-an-hour winds today and slammed into famine-plagued Communist China.

First reports said three persons died in Hong Kong. Ships, tossed about like corks, collided in the harbor. Property damage ran to tens of thousands of dollars.

The typhoon, which swept across the South China Sea, was the first to strike this British island colony with full fury this year.

The storm battered the refugee-crowded city for more than an hour before moving into Kwangtung province of mainland China threatening nearby rice spring rice crops. The rice was transplanted only last month and is in a tender stage.

Communist China needs all the rice it can get. The Peking regime has reported near-famine conditions in many regions as a result of drought and other natural calamities.

The food shortage on the mainland is so acute that Peking authorities have made huge purchases of wheat and other grains from Australia, Canada and other western countries.

South Africans Cut More Ties

LONDON (CP)—South Africa, which has decided to leave the Commonwealth, began withdrawing its representatives Friday from the specialist committees on which Commonwealth co-operation is based.

The start was made on the Commonwealth education liaison committee, during a meeting considered private.

EDUCATION AID

No official announcement followed but it was reported a South African diplomat told the meeting his government no longer could participate in the committee's operations. The committee was set up two years ago to co-ordinate educational assistance schemes.

MORE SERIOUS

Next step in South Africa's Commonwealth disengagement process, due Wednesday, is considered more serious. Then, for the first time, there will be no South African representative at the annual meeting of senior economic officials who meet to discuss common problems.

WORLD BANK

And there will be no South African representative when the finance ministers meet in September to prepare for the World Bank meeting.

Other Commonwealth groups from which South African representatives have withdrawn or are about to withdraw are:

THREE GROUPS

Commonwealth economic committee, which co-ordinates trading, financial and economic intelligence reporting; the Commonwealth scientific committee, which exchanges technical information, and the Commonwealth Press Union.

Bennett Urges 'Chosen Few' To Speak for B.C.

Premier Bennett last night urged Esquimalt-Saanich voters to support George Hahn May 29 to protest "unfair" treatment B.C. receives from Ottawa.

Three hundred chairs were put out in the auditorium of Belmont High School for the rally, but only about 165 people turned up.

EMERGENCY

"This is no ordinary byelection, my friends," the premier said. "This is a great emergency. You'll be voting not for George Hahn and Social Credit, but for yourselves and your children and your children's children."

Mr. Bennett charged that if B.C. received its fair share of federal contracts—it now receives 2 per cent of the contracts and has 10 per cent of Canada's population, he said—there would be 80,000 more jobs in B.C. today.

THAT'S ALL

He said increased freight rates ordered by Ottawa are "destroying industry in Victoria" and added that his why firms like Sidney Roofing were compelled to move to the mainland.

"Knowing this, you dare not vote for either the Liberals or the Conservatives," the premier said. "You couldn't do it and look at yourself in the looking glass next morning."

NOT A NICKEL

B.C. alone gets "not a single nickel more" than the basic tax returns in the new rental pact while several other provinces get many millions of dollars in "bonuses," he said. "Is it fair? The federal government is taking more money from us, because our wages are high and we pay the most income tax, and dividing the money among the rest of Canada."

"You in Esquimalt-Saanich are the chosen few; you must speak up for all B.C. You expect your premier to speak up. Your premier expects you to speak up."

Chico Marx Critically Ill

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—

Comedian Chico Marx, 70, piano-playing member of the Marx Brothers, was taken to hospital Friday night in critical condition. Nature of his ailment was not announced.

Crash Sends Sailor Flying

John Pickford, HMCS Naden, was in fair condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital early today after he was flung 30 feet by impact of a two-car crash shortly after midnight at Yates and Quadra.

A passenger in his car, Loraine Attwood, 903 North Park, was treated for minor injuries and the driver of the other car, James G. Moser, 1212 Walnut, was not hurt.

Whole Town Sends Girl to Health in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The hopes of hundreds of people in an Australian steel town are travelling with 20-year-old Lynette Walsh, who arrives Monday on the liner Oriana to undergo heart surgery.

Lynette has suffered all her life from mitral insufficiency,

a defect known as "open heart," and her condition has deteriorated during the last few years. Doctors in Sydney advised an operation and suggested Vancouver's General Hospital, widely known for cardiac surgery.

The day after she received the advice, Lynette mentioned

it casually to a fellow worker at the steel plant in Wollongong, 65 miles south of Sydney, where she works as an accounting machine operator. Three weeks later she was presented with the $4,500 needed for the trip.

The money had been raised by fellow workers and members of the Methodist church in the town, which Lynette attends, and another church in a suburb where she teaches Sunday School.

Lynette will enter hospital as soon as she arrives and hopes to return to Australia in August with a heart as good as new.

"You were just that big," Dr. Frank Bryant joked with waitress Evelyn Paterson last night. Dr. Bryant delivered Mrs. Paterson 40 years ago.

Service by One 'Baby' Real Honor for Doctor

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Dr. Frank Bryant got special attention at dinner last night.

For one thing, he was guest of honor at a dinner held at Victoria Golf Club by Victoria Medical Society to honor him for 50 years of service to the people of this area.

1,500 BABIES

And for another, one of the waitresses for the dinner was Mrs. William Paterson, 1055 Nicholson, one of some 1,500 babies he has delivered in Victoria.

As Evelyn Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Green, 866 Brett Avenue, Mrs. Paterson was born 40 years ago.

SON, TOO

And just 18 years ago, Dr. Bryant delivered Mrs. Paterson's son, Thomas.

"How much did you weigh?" someone asked Mrs. Paterson. "Six and a half pounds," Dr. Bryant said quickly, and held his hands about eight inches apart.

FROM MANITOBA

Born in Russell, Man., in 1885—76 years ago—Dr. Bryant came to Victoria in 1911.

"Those were the days when only three doctors in town had cars," he reminisced. "Most doctors had a horse and buggy and there were hitching rails outside both the hospitals."

BIKE RIDER

"I started my practice here riding a bicycle, but I changed over to renting a horse and buggy after one day when I answered one call to Esquimalt and then had to hurry over to another in Oak Bay. I could hardly walk when I got there."

Dr. Bryant has been president of the B.C. division of the Canadian Medical Association, and was president of Victoria Medical Society in 1931.

OTHER PORTS

He was also president of the medical staff of St. Joseph's Hospital in 1938 and 1946 and has held many other high professional posts.

During the dinner his fellow doctors presented him with an inscribed cigarette case.

But it was hard to tell which he enjoyed most—the dinner or his chat with Mrs. Paterson.

Yesterday's Sun Set New Record

You're right—it WAS hot yesterday . . . In fact it set an all-time record for May 19.

It wasn't the hottest day in May Victoria has ever seen (on May 26, 1947, it was 85 degrees) but the thermometer yesterday registered a high of 79.2 degrees at 4 p.m. at Gonzales Observatory.

Previous record for May 19 was 73.4 degrees in 1946.

Temperatures today, predicts the weatherman, will drop to 70 degrees, with clear skies by afternoon. These conditions are expected to prevail through to Monday.

Summit Parley 'Timely Contact'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev will meet in Vienna June 3 and 4 to discuss major issues between their two countries, the White House and the Kremlin announced Friday.

The U.S. said the meeting also would "afford a timely and convenient opportunity for the first personal contact" Kennedy has had with the Soviet leader since entering the White House. It emphasized there would be no attempt to negotiate cold war issues affecting other nations.

Kennedy met Khrushchev in September, 1959, when the premier was visiting Dwight Eisenhower.

After the Khrushchev meeting, the president will go to London for a brief conference with Prime Minister Macmillan. The Khrushchev talks will be preceded by Kennedy's previously announced meeting May 31 June 2 with French President de Gaulle.

Most U.S. allies expressed guarded approval provided it is kept in mind that no settlement of key issues is expected. In London, foreign undersecretary Joseph Godber said the meeting would provide an opportunity to "clear the air."

Two More For Space

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. plans to rocket a second astronaut down the Atlantic missile range June 20 and follow with a third, around Aug. 1.

Astronauts John Glenn and Virgil Grissom will repeat the May 5 performance of Alan Shepard. Also in June, a dummy in a Mercury spacecraft will be put into orbit with an Atlas missile.
